

Student Support To Attend 26th IAGS, November 2013

In November 2013, the Association of Applied Geochemists (AAG) will hold its 26th International Applied Geochemistry Symposium (IAGS) in Rotarura, New Zealand. The association will make available financial support for students of applied geochemistry to attend this meeting. Details will be forthcoming as the meeting approaches. Each successful recipient will be required to present results of their applied geochemistry studies at this meeting in either poster or oral form, and publish a short article in AAG's magazine EXPLORE or journal Gechemistry, Exploration, Environment, Analysis.

Interested students should contact AAG's Symposium Committee chairman Dr David Cohen by email at d.cohen@unsw.edu.au, and provide contact details, the title of the research being undertaken, and the name and contact details of the supervisor. Application to present at the 26th IAGS should be made using the information provided on the symposium website (<http://www.gns.cri.nz/iags/>)
